I. Demography

A. Population

The population of Sorsogon City based on the Philippine Statistical Office as of August 1, 2015 is 168,110. This is higher by almost 13,000 compared to the population of 155,144 in 2010. The population data used in this plan uses the latest Census (2015) but limited to the released data of the Philippine Statistical Authority (PSA). Where disaggregation is not available in the official release, projections of the 2010 population is used or provincial, regional or national data are used for reference purposes.

There are discrepancies in the population projections with the data supplied by the Department of Health to the City Health Office. In this case, data of the specific sector is used.

THE POPULATION OF SORSOGON AS PER NATIONAL STATISTIC OFFICE CENSUS OF 2015

B. Population Composition

The population of Sorsogon as per National Statistic Office census of 2015 the total population is recorded at 168,110. Previously recorded total population from the previous census year 2010 is at 155,144.

The population of the city increased 1.54 percent annually, on average, for the period 2010 – 2015. The male population is slightly higher having a gender ratio of 1.02.

The City has 66.35 percent of its population comprising the labor force. These are the population with age 15 and over. Ages 15 to 64, or the working age population comprises 61.05 percent of the total population. The total dependency ratio is 64.77% with young dependency ratio of 54.8 and old dependency ratio of 8.98%. This shows that for every 100 working age population, there are 65 dependents, 55 of which are young and 9 are old.

The school going-age population (5-24 years old) is 44% of the total population. 22% comprise the elementary school age population, 14% compose the secondary school age population, while the tertiary school age population is 8%.

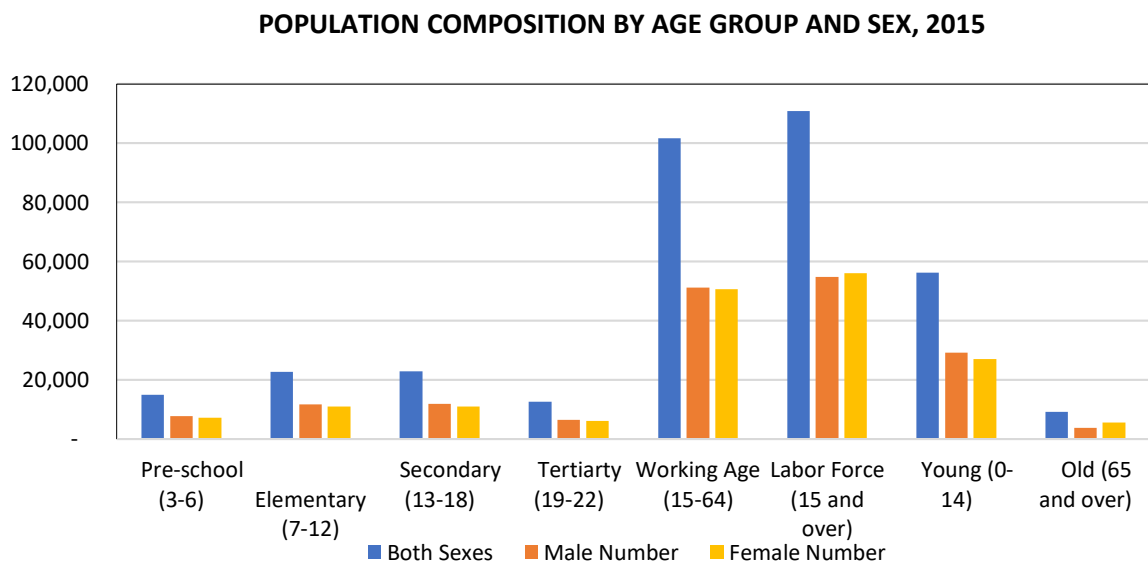

In terms of sex ratio, there are more males in the school going age population in all levels. There are 107 males for every 100 females. Same is true with the working age population. However, for the labor force, there are almost the same number of males and females. The young male dependents are greater while the male old dependents exceed the females by almost three fourths.

The average household size has decreased from 5.2 in the 2010 Census to 4.72 in the latest or 2015 Census of Population. Five barangays in the urban are included in the top 10 list of barangays with the highest average household size. These are Sulucan, Almendras, Sampaloc, Talisay and San Juan Roro. The rural barangays with highest average household size are San Ramon, Osiao, Buenavista, Bogna, and Rizal. The barangays with the highest and least number of households are both urban barangays. These are Bibincahan, which ranks as the highest, and Sulucan, which ranks as the lowest. Most barangays in the rural areas have the same Total and Household population. Only Guinlajan and the urban barangays have institutional population.

D. Population Density

The gross density of Sorsogon City is 609 persons per square kilometer or 6 persons per hectare, considering the more than 6,000 hectares geothermal reservation area. With a built-up area of 748 hectares, this results to a density of 213 persons per hectare.

Among the urban barangays, Sulucan, Sirangan, Talisay, Burabod, Bitan-o, Almendras, Polvorista and Sampaloc are the densest barangays with more than 100 persons per hectare. Barangays with the highest population such as Bibinchan, Pangpang, and Cabid-an have large gross areas ranking them second to the group of tens.

In terms of density built-up area, Bibinchan, Pangpang, and Cabid-an rank among the first three biggest barangays.

E. Urbanization Level

Sorsogon City started as two separate municipalities before becoming a city in year 2000. The former Municipality of Bacon has only Barangay Poblacion as its urban barangay classified by NSO (now PSA). While the former Municipality of Sorsogon has 10 barangays classified as urban. This has expanded through a legislation of the Sangguniang Bayan in 1981, expanding the area to the Poblacion (urban area) adding 7 barangays to the urban center. Sorsogon City since the merger, has now a total of 18 barangays comprising the urban areas. Considering population and proximity to the urban center, and presence of facilities, three barangays can be considered urbanizing. These are barangays Cambulaga in West District, Balete and San Roque in Bacon District.

The level of urbanization of the combined municipalities of Bacon and Sorsogon declined from 1990 until 2000. It escalated in 2007, declined in 2010 and again intensified up to 2015. Sorsogon City has almost half of its population living in the urban areas. Of the 64 barangays, 18 are considered urban barangays and 47 percent of the population lives here. The increase in urban population maybe associated with job opportunities, education, and migration from other municipalities.

F. Projected Population by Barangay

The population projection by barangay used the participation rate process to come up with the projected population 2019 to 2028. The 2015 population of the barangay is computed in terms of its contribution to the Sorsogon City. The same computation follows for the projected population of the city as its basis.

Bibincahan is projected to be almost 20,000 and Pangpang to be more than 11,000 by 2028. Cabid-an and Balogo East District follows with more than 8,000. For the urban barangays, the least projected population is Polvorista and Sulucan while for the rural barangays, Sta Lucia, Bato, Jamislagan, Bon-ot and Balogo, all of Bacon District, will have more than 500 to less than 800 population.

G. Projected School Age Population, Labor Force and Dependent Population

By the end of the planning period, the projected school going population will reach 88,800 with the elementary and secondary with more than 27,000 each level. This is an increase of 16,000 for the total school going population and 10,000 for the elementary and secondary level.

The labor force will increase by 25,000 by 2028. The young dependents will increase by an estimated 12,000 dependents while old dependents will increase by 2,000 more or less.

II. Physical Resources

A. Location

Sorsogon City lies from 123° 53' to 124° 09' east longitude and from 12° 55' to 13° 08' north latitude. It is 600 kilometers southeast of Manila and is located at the southernmost tip of Luzon. As part of the geographical chain linking Luzon to the rest of the Philippines, it is a transshipment corridor and serves as the gateway city to the Visayas and Mindanao Islands. Its geographical location is such that it opens into both the Pacific Ocean (through Albay Gulf) and the China Sea (through Sorsogon Bay and Ticao Pass). The city is bounded on the east by the municipalities of Pto. Diaz and Gubat, on the south by the municipality of Casiguran and Sorsogon Bay, on the west by the municipality of Castilla, on the northeast by the municipality of Manito in Albay, and on the north by Albay Gulf.

Sorsogon City has an area of 27,600 hectares or 27.6 square kilometers. The shared boundary with Pto. Diaz on the east is 10.64 kilometers and with Gubat municipality is 15.27 kilometers. On the south, adjoining boundary with Casiguran is 3.37 kilometers. The adjacent Municipality of Manito, Albay Province has 15.56 kilometers boundary and with Castilla on the west is 8.38 kilometers.

Sorsogon City has a total coastline of 61.2 kilometers covering two bodies of water. Coastline along Albay Gulf is 36.45 kilometers and approximately 33 nautical miles bordering the municipal waters with the municipalities of Manito, Rapu-rapu, and Pto. Diaz. Along the Sorsogon Bay, the coastline stretches to 24.81 kilometers and 22 nautical miles bordering the municipal waters of Casiguran, Juban, Magallanes, and Castilla. The total area of the municipal waters of Sorsogon City is approximately 266 square kilometers for the two sides, 20,041 has. at Albay Gulf and 6,609 has. at Sorsogon Bay.

Sorsogon City is divided into three districts, East, West, and Bacon districts. East district has 14 barangays, West district has 22 barangays, and 28 barangays for Bacon District. Of the total 64 barangays of the city Official Land Area of sorsogon 27530.458 has. 18 are urban barangays while 46 are considered rural barangays. The urban barangays land area totals 3,977.95 hectares or 14.44% of the city's area. The rural barangays total land area is 23,521.37 has. or 85.56% of the total area. Barangay Bibinchan ranks first in terms of area among the urban barangays while Barangay Osiao is the biggest rural barangay. The smallest urban barangay is Polvorista and Cambulaga as the smallest rural barangay.

B. Topography

Generally, the territorial jurisdiction of Sorsogon City is suitable for agriculture with Clay, Loam or Silty Clay Loam types of top soil. Except for a few areas with hydrosol, these are unsuitable areas for agriculture.

C. Suitability of Land for Urban Use

Of the total area of the city, a total of 15, 800 hectares or 58 percent is below 30% grade in slope which are suitable for development in urban use. The remaining areas have slopes above 30% grade and are suited only for forest use. Table 2 refers to suitability areas for urban use.

Table 15. Slope

Slope category	Area covered (ha)	Suitability
0 - 3 %	4,296	Urban use
3 - 8 %	6,905	Urban use
8 - 18 %	3,309	Urban use

D. Climate and Meteorology

Generally, the climate of Sorsogon is under Type II of the Coronas classification system. Under Type II, there is no pronounced dry season but with a very pronounced maximum rain period from November to January. Sorsogon City's annual rainfall range from 2,800 mm to 3,500 mm. Rain is expected 200 days in a year and even in the driest months unexpected downpour occurs.

Atmospheric temperature and relative humidity in the Sorsogon City range from 21°C to 32 °C. Relative humidity is 82%. Prevailing air stream systems are the monsoons and Pacific Trade Winds which pas over Sorsogon City and cause variations to climate. The Northeast Monsoon (Amihan) occurs/ dominates from October to March and brings significant amounts of rains. While the Southwest Monsoon (Habagat), occurs from June to September and during these months, the area is warm and very humid thus, increasing rainfall rates The Pacific Trade Winds (Gurang na Habagat) occurs during April and May significantly raise temperatures (City Ecological Profile, 2015).

The climate is tropical in Sorsogon City. The same has a significant rainfall throughout the year. The city experiences a lot of rainfall even during the driest months. The climate here is classified as Af by the Köppen-Geiger system. The average annual temperature is 27.1 °C in Sorsogon City. The average annual rainfall is 3089 mm.

The driest month is May. There is 139 mm of precipitation in May. Most precipitation falls in December, with an average of 487 mm.

Climograph of Sorsogon City

E. Temperature Graph of Sorsogon City

With an average of 28.2 °C, May is the warmest month. In January, the average temperature is 25.7 °C. It is the lowest average temperature of the whole year.

F. Elevation

Elevation starts from 0-100 meters above sea level (masl) to Mt. Rangas, the highest point at 1,000 meters. The sloping uplands are the shoulders of the range and the series of hills in the southeast. Coconut, abaca, and fruit trees cover this area. The plain is generally low and level. Settlements and other built-up areas and rice fields occupy the plain area. Marshlands are the mouth of rivers vegetated mainly by nipa and are developed into fishponds (Figure 3).

G. Surface Waters

A system of rivers and creeks and several small waterways drain the general area of the city: Salog River is an urban river originating from Mt. Alinao and traversing eight barangays before discharging into the Sorsogon Bay. San Isidro, Rizal, and Cawayan Rivers originate from springs and tributaries of secondary forest areas within EDC Geothermal Reservation including the Bacon District or northwestern rivers of the city. Rivers in Bacon District, at the northwestern to northeastern portion of the city, drain to the Albay Gulf. These include Luluwasan Osiao, Gatbo, and Rangas Rivers. Rivers in the southwest & south namely San Isidro, Cawayan, Salog, and Abuyog Rivers at the East & West District drain into the Sorsogon Bay.

Fresh Water Rivers, upon reaching the lowlands, are often tapped for irrigation and domestic uses. Brackish ones are source of shrimps and shellfish. Water resources in the City are generally classified into surface and groundwater. Springs (Table 4) and networks of creeks and tributaries at the upland converges at the down streams to form major river systems. The Major river systems of Sorsogon City is shown in Table 5.

III. Social Services

A. Education

Sorsogon City serves as the center of education of the province. All the barangays are served by 64 public elementary schools including some sitios/purok with adjacent urban barangays covered by central schools. Enrolment for SY 2018-2019 in the basic education was 46,251 and 7,275 for public and private schools respectively. Classroom to student ratio was 1:36. Teacher to student ratio was 1:26 as general ratios.

For the preschool, Day care centers (DCC) and private Montessori-type nurseries are also present. The DCC are managed by the LGU with the day care workers as teachers under the City Social Welfare and Development Office. There are 99 daycare centers distributed in 64 barangays.

Elementary.

Secondary education is extended by four private high schools and public schools, nine of which are nationalized high schools. Participation rate is 103%, with enrollees from other municipalities accounting for the relatively high rate. Public secondary enrolment for SY 2018-2019 was 19,904. Classroom to student ratio was 1:34 (senior). Teacher to student ratio was 1: 28 (senior). The private schools account for 20% of the total enrolment of the secondary level.

The city has 12 tertiary schools. The Sorsogon State College has the biggest enrollment. Leading courses in all schools are technology, business, computer technology, maritime, criminology, and education. The Graduates of these schools' programs support the urban center role of Sorsogon. Of particular importance are the graduate programs that meet the need of office and department chiefs who are required by their positions to have master's degree

Education sector is served by both the private and public schools. The elementary and secondary education under the City Schools Division and the Tertiary under TESDA and CHED.

Technical Findings/ Observations	Implications (Effects)	Policy Options/ Interventions
		Encourage and support educational research by teachers on addressing the gaps in learners' performance
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Location of some schools (such as SNHS and Pilot Elem School) poses risk to pupils and students.</li> </ul>	Risk to vehicular accidents and inevitable volume of outflow causing traffic congestion	Study location of exits, relocation of school, management of __, and use of overpass (footbridge)
Schools located in high-risk areas (flooding and storm surge)	Damage risk to learning materials during typhoons and heavy rain.	Study relocation of schools.  Construction of mitigating structures at the moment.
Use of schools as evacuation centers.	Classes are disrupted if prolonged evacuation takes place.  Loss/Damage of learning materials may occur.	Construction of evacuation center for the barangay at strategic locations.  Construction of storage/dual function classroom-evacuation center building
Lack of water facilities in some schools	Results to poor sanitation health of pupils/students is risked.	Construction of water systems or rainwater collection system.
Some schools and facilities need repair and improvement	May pose danger to pupils/students and might not be conducive to learning	Repair of classrooms and or construction of new buildings.
High enrolment in central schools	High student to classroom ratio or crowded classrooms making it disadvantageous to learning.	Construction of school buildings, encourage enrolment in place of residence.
Limited area of school sites for new school buildings.	Sites are not prioritized due to absence of site.	Encourage construction of multi-storey school building, technical assistance to prepare site development plans of school sites to prepare for future buildings, procure new sites.
Lack of facilities	Slows learning of skills	Purchase of equipment and construction of buildings for the non-classroom facilities

C. Commerce and Trade

The list of the commercial establishments operating in Sorsogon are mostly geared towards retail and wholesale. All other economic activities fall under the service industry. Among these are hotels, lodging houses and restaurants, repair shops, groceries and supermarkets, hospitals, clinics, and transport and telecommunications companies.

Businesses are concentrated in the downtown area near the public market and major commercial establishments. The presence of 12 financial institutions – nine of which are branches of national banks – further reinforces Sorsogon City’s position as sub-regional center. With the onset of cityhood, two medium-scale malls have been constructed, and a third is in the planning and initial marketing stage. Also, a 300-hectare Economic Zone has been identified in the north-eastern part of the city. It covers the barangays of Buhatan, Cabid-an, and Bibincahan. Within the Economic Zone and along the diversion road a 50-hectare agro-industrial zone is being proposed. As support to the transshipment corridor role of the province, it will accommodate the food terminal (bagsakan), warehouses, storage facilities, and light industries.

B. Power

Table 80. Power Analysis Matrix

Technical Findings/ Observations	Implications (Effects)	Recommended Interventions
With remote sitios unenergized	Low productivity	Use of solar panels for electricity, power or missionary electrification
		Localize renewable energy ordinance in consonance with RA 9513
SORECO II service areas have been experiencing rapid development	Increase in power demand	Encourage independent power producers to invest on renewable energy
Frequency and duration index below standard	Frequent and long power service interruptions	Promotion on the use of solar energy and led lights, Green Building Technology

D. Information and Communication Technology

Table 91. Sample Information and Communication Analysis Matrix

Technical Findings/ Observations	Implications (Effects)	Recommended Interventions
Hanging and dangling telephone, cable and electrical wires	Unpleasant view especially to a developing city like us	Require all telecommunication, cable and electrical companies to continuously remove unnecessary and unserviceable wires
Low internet speed	Decrease in the efficiency of delivery of online services
Issue on space rental for cell site towers and limited cell sites	Limited providers	Reduce bureaucratic process in securing permits for cell site towers

VI. Natural Environment

A. Forest

Forests and Forest Lands (FFLs) are crucial to the well-being of Sorsogonans as it provide a suite of ecosystem services vital for their survival and development. These services range from provision of food, water, and raw materials; to regulation of climate and water resources; supporting soil formation and nutrient cycling; and cultural services including educational, recreational, and heritage values. In addition, FFLs provide protective functions against the impacts of disasters and climate change including disturbance regulation (e.g., storm protection, flood control, drought recovery), erosion control, and sediment retention. Through the years, FFLs are subjected to increasing population pressure which frequently leads to the conversion or degradation of forests into unsustainable forms of land use. FFLs are challenged not only by rapid population growth, but also by high poverty levels, increase migration to the uplands, and rapid urban growth. Thus, the care of FFLs within the context of sustainable forest management is necessary to ensure the continuous flow of aforementioned ecological services.

Out of Sorsogon City's total area of 27,611 hectares, FFLs account for 7,914.03 hectares which constitutes 28.66% or little less than one-third of the total land area. (Fig. 1) These lands are concentrated mostly at the upland north-western portion of the City covering the West and Bacon Districts while the rest are mangrove areas dispersed along the coastal sections of the City bounding the Sorsogon Bay at West and East Districts and Sugod Bay at Bacon District.

Upland forests account for 88.36% of the total FFLs of the City at 6,992.88 hectares followed by mangrove forests at 11.56% (914.94 hectares) and small islands at 0.078% (6.21 hectares). All of the upland forests are located within the 25,000-hectare Bacon-Manito Geothermal Reservation Area declared under Presidential Proclamation No. 2036-A covering the two provinces of Albay and Sorsogon, of which the Energy Development Corporation (EDC) formerly known as Philippine National Oil Company, is currently the service contractor recognized by the Department of Energy (DOE). (Fig. 2)

This makes the EDC as the virtual resource manager of the City's upland forests with control of access into the area. For more than thirty years, EDC has conducted geothermal explorations and utilization activities in the City's upland forests by establishing Bac-Man II steam fields at Cawayan in Brgy. Basud in 1996 and at Botong in Brgy. Osiao in 1998 (decommissioned as of 2013). In 2017, EDC started working on its expansion at Tanawon covering the barangays of Bulabog and Capuy. In addition, a portion of the upland forest within said geothermal reservation at the north-eastern section of the City is being co-managed by Sorsogon City Water District (SCWD). With an area of about 600 hectares and bounded by Mt. Suminandig in the west and by Lubong-Macabaliw-Alinao Mountain Range in the east, it contains SCWD's spring sources that provide water supply to West and East Districts.

Mangrove forests are mostly unallocated areas and subject to exploitation by residents as source of wood, as area for backyard fishponds, human settlements, boat anchorage, and other related activities. Through Presidential Proclamation No. 2152 signed on 29 December 1981, a total of 74,267 hectares of mangrove areas all over the country were declared as Mangrove Swamp Forest Reserve (MSFR), of which 415.2531 hectares are located in Sorsogon City. The said mangrove forest reserve covers 16 barangays located in West and Bacon Districts constituting 45.39% of the City's total mangrove forests and is strictly for protection purposes. (Fig. 3) The remaining mangrove forests are designated for production and concentrated mostly at the East District along the contiguous coastal zones of Brgys. Cabid-an, Buhatan, and Abuyog. In 2015, the potential of mangrove areas for eco-tourism was developed with the operation of Buhatan River Cruise largely through the help of ABS-CBN Foundation. Mainly operated and managed by local fisherfolks, Buhatan River Cruise offers tourists with unique encounter with nature by ferrying them across the winding path of Buhatan River which cuts across the mangrove forests and draining eventually to Sorsogon Bay. At the river mouth, a cottage restaurant is put up to showcase local cuisine.

On 1-31 October 2019, DENR V conducted a Protective Area Suitability Assessment (PASA) within the declared Mangrove Swamp Forest Reserve (MSFR) of the City. Main objectives of the study include determining the status of the mangrove forest reserve and to compile and analyze its biophysical and socio-economic characteristics for possible establishment as Protected Area under RA 7586 otherwise known as National Integrated Protected Area System (NIPAS) as amended by RA 11038 (Expanded NIPAS). In terms of criteria provided under BMB Technical Bulletin No. 2017-05, it was found that the City's MSFR is "Fair" when it comes to Crown Cover (at 26-50%), "Good" in Average Height of Trees (3-5 meters), and "Excellent" in Regeneration Rate (10 or more regeneration per sq.m.). Said findings mean that the mangrove forest reserve has suffered decline but has great potential to recover. Further site assessment revealed presence of 19 mangrove species, two of which are under near threatened status, Ceriops decandra (Malatangal) and Aegiceras floridum (Tinduk-tindukan), and 5 species of seagrass in the Bacon District. Other findings show that the area is beset by the following issues and threats: accumulation of garbage, conversion of mangrove areas into fishpond and human settlements, presence of concrete structures and pig pens, and illegal cutting. It is also found that poverty threshold in communities adjacent to MSFR is low, with agricultural farming and fishing as main sources of livelihood. With said findings, DENR V recommended the establishment of the MSFR as NIPAS Protected Area under the category of Wildlife Sanctuary.

In compliance with Joint Memo Circular No. 1998-01, the City started its formulation of Forest Land Use Plan (FLUP 2018-2022) with the assistance from DENR and World Bank under its Program for Forest II (PROFOR II). Using watershed as spatial planning framework and with particular emphasis on ecological services, a total of 11 sub-watersheds were identified within the City. These sub-watersheds were subsequently ranked based on various ecological services that they produce (i.e., biodiversity value, water production, economic production, etc.) with Ticol-Cawayan, San Juan, and Buhatan emerging as top 3 sub-watersheds. Fig. 4 shows the Sub-Watershed Map while Table FO-1 shows the results of sub-watershed prioritization. In addition, 3 landscape scenarios were used during the forest land use planning, namely: Business-as-Usual, Bare-Urban, and Forested scenarios. Business-as-Usual is a landscape simulation that uses the current land cover of the sub-watersheds. Bare-Urban is a landscape where the sub-watersheds are highly urbanized with large-scale conversion of natural vegetation to built-up areas while the Forested scenario is a landscape simulation where the majority of the land cover of the watershed consists of closed forests. These scenarios were used to assess the ecosystem service provision of the FFLs under different land cover extent and spatial arrangements and in effect, highlight the role of forests in enhancing the City's climate resilience. Using Soil and Water Assessment Tool (SWAT) with technical assistance from Forest Management Bureau (FMB), it was found that forested scenario provides the highest level of ecological services in terms of water volume (cu.m./yr.), ground water yield (cu.m./yr.), sediment outflow regulation (tons/yr.), as well as reduction of stream and hill slope erosion (tons/yr.). In addition, forested scenario provides fairly steady stream flow rates compared to other scenarios. (Figs. 5-10) These results show that as the City moves towards a direction of a more "forested" landscape, the community would stand to benefit more thereby justifying the protection and preservation of FFLs in order to insulate the community from adverse impacts of climate change.

Another concept used in the FLUP is the valuation of ecosystem services. By assigning monetary values on services provided by FFLs such as water provision and control of erosion using replacement cost method, it was found that in just 5 sub-watersheds, large amount of money is saved annually just by ensuring the perpetuation of FFLs. (Fig. 11) This finding also shows the advantages of reforestation over man-made interventions. Investing in reforestation (at P20,000/ha.) can be more cost-effective compared to infrastructure projects, like in the case of erosion control (e.g., check dams, erosion mats). Moreover, reforestation enriches FFLs ensuring the continuous provision of wide array of ecosystem services to communities which further increase through time unlike man-made structures which are limited in terms of intended service and tend to depreciate as they age.

As to the existing status of FFLs of the City, shown in Table FO-2 and Table FO-3 the major usage and land uses of sub-watersheds and respective land cover per sub-watersheds, respectively. Perennial crops such as coconut, abaca, and fruit-bearing trees are the dominant land cover at 56.60% spread across all sub-watersheds. Broadleaved forests account for 24.38% land cover located mostly at the upland portions of Luluwasan, Panlayaan-Suhi and Ticol-Cawayan sub-watersheds. Annual crops such as rice and vegetables are present at low-lying plains of Ticol-Cawayan, Salog, and San Juan Watersheds making up 8.69% of total land cover. The rest of the sub-watersheds are covered by shrubs at 1.35%, natural grassland at 0.73%, and wooded grassland at 0.50% land cover.

During FLUP workshop sessions with key informants from different lowland, coastal and upland communities, the following issues and concerns were discussed:

1. Weak enforcement of environmental and natural resources laws/policies and ordinances resulted to conversion of forest lands to other uses particularly upland agriculture. It also resulted to limited fish catch in coastal areas. These contributed to forest and marine ecosystems' deforestation and degradation.
2. Inconsistencies in the implementation of forest and coastal resources conservation policies and local statutes led to limited investment efforts in forest and coastal conservation resulting to degradation.
3. Limited livelihood opportunities and rapid population growth lead to poverty and conversion of mangrove, agricultural and upland areas to other uses. Poverty drives people to farm and settle in open access forestlands. Due to lack of knowledge on sustainable livelihood options, people earn a living by cutting down trees and mangrove species, kaingin farming, charcoal making, and other excessive extraction of forest products resulting to forest degradation, low productivity and occurrences of hazard risks e.g. upland and riverbank soil erosion, landslides, fish kill, and downstream flooding.

4. Degradation and deforestation of forests and forestlands contributes to loss of biodiversity due habitat destruction, decline in the quality and quantity of water both for domestic and farm needs resulting to water use conflicts as well as health or sanitation hazards.
5. Forest degradation also contribute to climate change induced hazards such as: flooding of low lying areas causing riverbank erosion and sedimentation of waterways; soil erosion and landslides in steep slopes during typhoons; decrease fertility of lands. All of these disaster risks affect livelihood, lives and properties.

In response to the aforementioned issues and concerns, the following technical strategies are developed and incorporated in the FLUP:

Recommendations for Unallocated Areas

1. Identify and impose strict protection and multiple use zones
2. Relocate households living in the protection forest zone to alienable and disposable zones.
3. Come up with a documentation of people living in the multipurpose areas and restrict entry of new settlers.
4. Establish communal forest or individual family woodlots within production forests for fuel wood requirements.
5. Develop guidelines and protocols in sustainable agroforestry/upland farming.
6. Develop “natural assets/capital” and ecosystems services’ assessment and monitoring systems in the protection and production forests zones.
7. Establish alternative financing mechanisms to support on-site management of watersheds especially in strict protection areas example: PES and REDD + mechanisms and linkages.
8. As much as possible for ease in management, protection and development of areas should be contiguous to one another.
9. Development of tree plantations in upland, lowland and mangrove areas.
10. Conservation and development of water production areas.
11. Conservation and development of biodiversity resources and opening of biodiversity corridors.
12. Developing protocols in sustainable nature-based tourism.
13. Enabling and capacitating resource users engage in sustainable nature-based enterprise development, sustainable upland & lowland farming practices and law enforcement;

14. Community Managed Biodiversity Conservation and Management
15. Para-Legal education
16. Organizing Self Help Groups of primary stakeholders as FFL earth scouts.

a. Recommendations for Climate Change Disaster Risks Reduction and Management

1. Forest and forest lands vulnerability and impact assessment (VIA) to identify CC and Disaster risks and vulnerabilities of ecosystems and natural assets/capital, and develop appropriate mitigation, adaptation, and risk reduction measures.
2. Sustainable environmental services management.
3. Change in livelihood strategies through non-extractive activities and more on “nature-based” enterprises; livelihood diversification.
4. Proper water resource utilization, harvesting and storage.
5. Proper waste management.
6. Changes in planting and harvesting time; use flood and/or drought resistant crops.
7. Improved animal, crops and tree management.
8. Carbon stock assessment of trees.
9. Land. Crop, trees and water suitability assessment.
10. Documentation of FLUP implementation highlighting good practices into popular information, education and linking, learning and documentation to be able to lobby
11. Lobbying and Advocacy.
12. Cooperation and partnership with other stakeholders.
13. Mobilizing funds.
14. Putting on ground the recommendations of Sorsogon City’s Local Climate Change Adaptation Plan (LCCAP).
15. Continuous capability building for the Community Based Disaster Risk Reduction Management (CBDRRM).

b. Cross Cutting Strategies

1. Documentation of FLUP implementation highlighting learning and good practices. These are translated into popular information, education and communication (IEC) materials to be used for advocacy, linking/lobbying for funding.
2. Conduct of training needs assessment, development and conduct of trainings.
3. Marketing FLUP through investment fora and summits.
4. Crafting, implementing and administering environmental services user fee systems.
5. Investing resources in collective planning, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of ES Oriented FLUP.

B. Coastal

The Coastal Resource Management Plan provides stopgap measures for resource utilization and allocation of natural seagrass, mangroves, fisheries and coastal water quality. It provides information on the economic and other values of coastal habitats and ecosystems in terms of direct production, loss of earnings from destruction and values created by tourism. Ensuring the vitality of coastal resources and their ability to continue providing benefits to society and economies is critically important.

This document aims to protect and conserve our local coastal resource. What has been formulated is a document that goes beyond the biology of mangroves and fisheries and involves people and communities. The plan has been the outcome of a series of stakeholder consultations involving national agencies, civil society, the academe and local communities. Implementation of this plan will go a long way in reversing coastal degradation.

History of planning

Sorsogon City has a Coastal Resources Management Work and Financial Plan for the year 2003 to 2008, this was approved and adopted by the first City Council and was the bases for the implementation of its coastal resources management programs, projects and activities. The work and financial plan was the result of the Participatory Coastal Resource Assessment conducted under the FRMP project in Sorsogon Bay Area and the RSA conducted by the Tambuyog in Albay Gulf Area in Bacon District.

The Work and Financial Plan was updated after the Rapid Resource and Social Assessment of the City Waters in Bacon District,(Part of Albay Gulf) Sorsogon City was conducted last July 28-3 and August 19-20, 2009 2009 in coordination with Bicol University, Coastal Core and fisherfolk leaders in Bacon District. This was participated by the technical working group of LGU Sorsogon City, BU Research Team, BU Students, Coastal Core, and the participants of the Capability Training. On the other hand, A Participatory Coastal Resource assessment was also conducted last September 22-24, 2010 in Sorsogon Bay Area in coordination with the Department of Environment and Natural Resources-Protected Areas, Wildlife and Coastal Zone Management Services (DENR-PAWCZMS) and its field offices the PENRO and the CENRO.

This recent and updated Coastal Resource Management Plan for 2018 – 2022 is based on the recently conducted Participatory Coastal Resource Assessment for both the two bodies of water in Albay Gulf area and Sorsogon Bay area on October 23-27, 2017 through counter parting scheme of the City Government and the BFAR-IFAD FishCORAL Projec

C. Biodiversity

The Energy Development Corporation (EDC) wildlife conservation area located within the boundaries of Manito, Albay and Sorsogon City which occupies a portion of the 25,000 hectares reservation area. The area is the habitat of the golden-crowned flying fox (Acerodon jubatus) and the large flying fox (Pteropus vampyrus), two of the world's largest bat species. A total of 9 species, representing three (3) families are found and having their habitat in the area. Also known as the golden capped fruit bats (Acerodon jubatus), the species is endangered and is currently facing the possibility of extinction because of poaching and forest destruction. It is also endemic to Philippine forests. Aside from the two (2) large flying foxes, a Mottled-wing flying fox, four (4) common fruit bats: common short-nosed fruit bat, Philippine pygmy fruit bat, dagger-toothed flower bat and musky fruit bat and two (2) insectivorous bats were also found. The presence of these animals was officially verified in June 2006 during the wildlife survey conducted by the University of the Philippines – Los Baños (UPLB) Museum of National History team.

Biodiversity refers to the variability among the living organisms from all sources including, inter alia, terrestrial, marine and other aquatic ecosystems and the ecological complexes of which they are part. Their manifold interactions form part of complex natural processes that maintain ecological balance and the production of wide array of ecological services vital to the community. Most terrestrial flora and fauna abound in FFLs serving as natural habitat for these life forms. Vegetation exists at different levels of the forest ecosystem with canopy layer as the topmost comprised of >10cm diameter trees belonging to dipterocarp species, followed by intermediate layer with plants having  $\leq 10$  cm diameter consisted mostly of saplings, small trees, shrubs, large ferns and tall herbaceous plants such as banana and abaca. The lowest level of the forest is the understory or ground layer where grasses, herbs, small ferns, seedlings and vines are found.

Most FFLs particularly upland forests are concentrated within the EDC Geothermal Reservation Area. As such, identified terrestrial species within the said area can be considered as representative of what can be typically found in the City. Based on 2017 survey conducted by EDC for its BACMAN 3 Project (Tanawon) covering upland portions of Brgys. Bulabog and Capuy in the West District, there are 4 plant species found in the area with globally threatened status based on International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) Red List. These include Shorea palosapis (Mayapis) classified as Critically Endangered, as well as Kibatalia gitingensis, Cinnamomum mercadoi (Kanila/Kalingag), and Dillenia reifferscheidia all classified as Vulnerable (VU). In addition, there are a total of 29 terrestrial vertebrates recorded within BACMAN 3 which include 15 birds, 6 mammals, and 8 herptiles (reptiles and amphibians). Of these, 2 species are under Near Threatened (NT) status namely, Philippine Nectar Bat (Eonycteris Robusta) and Luzon Fanged Frog (Limnonectes macrocephalus), while 2 herptiles are under Vulnerable (VU) status: Stream Frog (Sanguirana tipanan) and Asiatic Tree Frog (Rhacophorus bimaculatus). Aside from these, EDC Geothermal Reservation also hosts a number of threatened endemic tree species such as Atipolo (Artocarpus blancoi. Merr.), Barayong (Afzelia rhomboidea), Molave (Vitex parviflora), Mapilig (Xanthostemon bracteatus), Banuyo (Wallaceodendron celebicum), Ipil (Leucaena leucocephala) considered as under Vulnerable status; Narra (Pterocarpus indicus) and Kamagong (Diospyros philippinensis) which are Endangered; Critically Endangered Baguak morado (Clerodendrum quadriloculare) and Bagoadlau (Xanthostemon philippinensis). Table FO-4 shows the list of terrestrial flora and fauna identified in EDC Geothermal Reservation (BACMAN 3 and adjacent areas). As resource manager of the geothermal reservation, EDC is undertaking reforestation activities under its BINHI Program focusing on the propagation and planting of indigenous tree species.

Due to the City's unique location being bounded at the South-West by Sorsogon Bay and by Sugod Bay at the North-East, Sorsogon City boasts a rich variety of mangroves, fishes, and other aquatic organisms. Results of Focus Group Discussion with key informants on 10 June 2016 during the formulation of Paguriran Island Eco-Tourism Project and the PASA conducted by DENR V within the City's Mangrove Swamp Forest Reserve last October 2019 provide relevant information as to the City's marine biodiversity. Table FO-5 shows the List of Marine and Aquatic Species in the City.

VII. Heritage Conservation Profile

Heritage sites and structures are our links to the past. Preserving this built heritage defines our cultural identity as a people. The city of Sorsogon has numerous heritage sites and structures that possess inherent characteristics and historical significance. The legacy left by our colonizers span from Spanish period to American Colonial era then towards the post war.

It is fortunate that some of which stand the test of time. Below is the inventory of heritage sites in the city of Sorsogon, as described in the table.
